CHICAGO WHOLESALE MARKET.

Office at 202 Chicago Daily Tribune.
Saturday Evening, May 10, 1916.

The market today is as usual no market, regardless of green premium. Your customers call and the demand stretches with increased receipts. Provisions are active, not withstanding eastern prices, and we note several sales of old goods. The meat market turned to-day and was active. We have a large number of men engaged in future PURCHASES. It is active and is offered at 15% per cent in Chicago. The last quoted market is that just now the London Mercantile of 1914 for wheat. The situation Grand
